
A killer is on the loose in this third installment of the series, Wrong Turn 3 mp4 movies. Wrong Turn 2 left viewers with an open-ended story, so this film picks up with a new group of friends attempting to survive in the West Virginia backwoods. When they break down and need help, they notice a peculiar mannequin in their only gas station's window and decide to explore further. That night there's a warning sign: "Danger: Do not enter." But it's already too late: The place is deserted and they're way out of cell phone range. The group has been separated, and now they're on a road trip to save each other. Some want to go back. Others want to run. And the mannequin's just a warning sign that they're being hunted by a twisted killer who will stop at nothing to destroy them all. 2 "Wrong Turn 3: Left for Dead" had its official premiere in October 2010 at the Toronto International Film Festival, and was released in theaters on August 14, 2011. It was released on DVD and Blu-ray on November 25, 2011.

The film opens with a documentary about a dog named Murphy who is left in a locked room by his owners. As the camera follows him around, the sound from the dog's barking is turned up higher and higher, to create a constant warping effect that evokes the sense of being trapped inside someone's head. In 2003, John Waters directed a short film for Tim Burton called "Murph into Oblivion", that featured Murphy. In an interview, Waters said his main inspiration for writing "Wrong Turn 3" was watching his dog get out of its cage while he was making the short. The film was shot in various locations. Interior shots were done in a working slaughterhouse. The opening credit sequence was filmed at Doncaster Shoppingtown. Filming also took place at the Mona Vale Hotel, which is known for holding an annual Red Right Hand Ball, to commemorate the filming of "The Shining". "Wrong Turn 3: Left for Dead" was released to DVD and Blu-ray on November 25, 2011 by 20th Century Fox Home Entertainment. It includes an unrated version of the film as well as deleted scenes and behind-the-scenes featurettes.

"" received mostly negative reviews from critics. "Los Angeles Times" critic Kenneth Turan called the film "a grindingly predictable horror movie that's strictly by-the-novel." Dave White of "TheWrap" wrote, "Like its predecessors, it confounds the notion that the less sense a horror film makes, the more enjoyable it will be. While part three does make one daring choice in killing off the film's heroine near the beginning (though she quickly returns), for most of its running time I was bored and disappointed." "Wrong Turn 3: Left for Dead" made $2.3 million during its opening weekend playing on 1,400 screens at 2,298 locations in North America.
